

Who Are We

North Carolina Food Service (NCFS) is a joint venture that is comprised of Tim Jones, a licensed blind vendor in North Carolina's Business Enterprise Program and KCA Corporation. Our Joint Venture brings together a blind vendor with 38 years experience in the Randolph-Sheppard Program (RSA) and an experienced military food services company that has been performing these services for 33 years (21 of these years as an RSA teaming partner) and a professional management staff that touts over 2 centuries of cumulative experience in military (and RSA) food service contract performance. We have felt the pain and are ready to share the lessons learned.

Our Mission

Our mission is twofold; we were formed in 2005 for the purpose of performing the full food and dining facility attendant services at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. We are still feeding these warfighters today.

Our second phase is to produce a repeatable model for licensed blind vendors that will enable the RSA to produce growth in the DOD military dining facility marketplace to enrich the lives of fellow professional blind food service entrepreneurs.

Our Focus

Our focus is not only on the needs of our warfighter customers, but on understanding the marketplace of the past, present and future and developing a strategic plan that will position us to grow into our customers future plans.

Our Goal

Is to make decisions that center the marketing mix on the customer to create value and generate a positive response.

Our Commitment

Our commitment is to the Randolph-Sheppard program. We believe in a united front that sustains the philosophy and raises awareness of the RSA program. We are committed to the programs of the NFB/NFBEI that address the misconceptions and underestimations that limit the program. We embrace the promise and are willing to take on the challenges to the RSA program. We are creative and are looking to assist the NFB/NFBEI in creative thinking to carry out plans to maximize opportunities through teaming to establish rules and regulations that are favorable to the RSA program.
